'The disposition of the Indian tribes indicates that it was prepared shortly before the outbreak of the Yamassee War in 1715, though the 'French Fort' at the junction of the Coosa and Tallapoosa Rivers was probably built after that event, and this feature may have been inserted later. The original is in a somewhat damaged condition, and a few names of Creek towns on the Altamaha River and its branches are illegible. Map showing the distribution of the slave population of the southern states of the United States / compiled from the census of 1860 ; engr. by Th. Leonhardt ; drawn by E. Hergesheimer.

[Boston, Mass. Norman B. Leventhal Map Center, 2011?].

"Entered according to Act of Congress, A.D. 1861 by Henry S. Graham in ... District of Columbia."

"Washington, September 1861."

"Census Office, Department of the Interior, Washington, Sept. 9th, 1861. After a careful examination of the above very interesting map I am prepared to state that it not only furnishes the evidences of great care in its execution, but can be relied on as corresponding with the official returns of the 8th Census. [Signed] Jos. C.G. Kennedy, Superintendent."

folio A 5 .392, v. no. 230 (May 25,1861), p. 332 (PrCt)
"Sold for the benefit of the sick and wounded soldiers of the U.S. Army."
Size of original: 66 x 84 cm.
Digital version of the original 1861 edition accompanied by the following additional notes on the Norman B. Leventhal Map Center website (accessed October 2012 -- http://maps.bpl.org/id/14001): "Based on 1860 census data, this visually striking map plots the percentage of slaves by county for the southern states. Rather than showing a uniform distribution throughout the entire region, it is readily apparent that there were several major slave concentrations, particularly where commercial plantation agriculture was most profitable -- tobacco in coastal and piedmont Virginia and Maryland; sugar in Louisiana along the lower Mississippi River; and cotton extending in a broad swath from coastal South Carolina, through the piedmont regions of Georgia, Alabama, and the Mississippi River Valley to coastal Texas. Attesting to this map's importance during the Civil War, it was intentionally depicted in Francis Bicknell Carpenter's oil painting, First Reading of the Emancipation Proclamation of President Lincoln, which hangs in the U.S. Capitol Senate wing. The artist's memoir records Abraham Lincoln's fascination with the map, not just for its symbolic power and visual appeal, but because it allowed him to trace military movements, and to relate those actions to his emancipation policies. This map was also one of the first statistical or thematic maps published in the United States. Although not explicitly acknowledged on the map, it was produced by the U.S. Coast Survey. Specifically, it was drawn by Edwin Hergesheimer, a recent German immigrant who was employed as the Survey's Chief Draftsman. In addition, a statement boldly positioned at the map's top center, stating that it was sold for the benefit of the U.S. Army's sick and wounded soldiers, suggests that it reflected the interests of Alexander Dallas Bache, the Survey's Superintendent. Bache was an ardent abolitionist and had just become vice president of the U.S. Sanitary Commission."

Authors: Schenk & Valck, Amsterdam -- Janssonius van Waeberge, Johannes, fl. 1642-1681 -- Gerald F. Fitzgerald Collection (Newberry Library) -- Waeberge, Johannes Janssonius van, fl. 1642-1681 SEE Janssonius van Waeberge, Johannes, fl. 1642-1681
1 map : hand col. ; 40 x 50 cm.
Detached from an atlas; MS. '36' on verso. Probably printed from a revised J. J. v. Waeberge plate: according to Koeman, Shenk & Valk bought Waeberge's plates in 1676 (v.2 p.162). Koeman does not attribute an original Spitsbergen map to Shenk & Valk (see v.3 p.119-121 and 137-140). Koeman reprints a catalog which lists Waeberge maps published in Schenk & Valk editions of the Novus Atlas. The catalog lists 'Spitsberga' as no. 9 (v.3 p.111).

xlii, 223 p. : ill. ; 24 cm.
The surveyor's dialogue originally published:
Uniform title: Surveyors dialogue
"This edition provides the first complete, modern version of John Norden's The Surveyor's Dialogue. Norden's text, a series of dialogues between a fictional surveyor and several interlocutors--including a tenant farmer, an aristocrat landowner, a manorial officer, and a socially mobile land buyer--is remarkable for its unique commentary on the agrarian roots of English capitalism. In his extensive introduction, Mark Netzloff situates the text in relation to a number of early modern contexts. He discusses the use of dialogue and other literary forms in proto-scientific writing and the role of print in the increasing professionalism of early surveyors. Netzloff also examines the impact of capital formation on agrarian and manorial class relations, discussing topics such as popular protest and revolt, cottagers and the rural poor, regionalism and urbanization, and the transformation of the natural environment through deforestation, enclosure, and the appropriation of commons. Alongside a thorough annotation of technical and historical terms, the edition provides a list of textual variants among early modern versions of the text."--Publisher.
