III Collection (Newberry Library)

110 nos. in 22 v. : ill., maps ; 25 cm.

Publication history: no.1 (1963) - 110 (1975)

Edited by R.V. Tooley, MCS was a very rare bird, indeed: a cartobibliographical journal. Each number was devoted to listing maps of a particular area; most were quite thorough, and all were accompanied by numerous plates. A second set of the series was cataloged individually and issues are scattered throughout the library; this set is bound uniformly in 22 vols. and a topical index to nos. 1-110 is tipped inside the front cover of no. 1.

Not a cataloging code (altthough one could catalog with it). Theoretically, at least, this is the standard on which chapter 3 of the Anglo-American Cataloguing Rules, 2nd ed. is based. It has the advantage of being more comprehensive than chapter 3 and considerably briefer than Hugo Stibbe's Cartographic Materials: A Manual of Interpretation for AACR2;
it also has a good set of full cataloging examples. Newberry holdings not verified (PrCt)

Authors: Jennings, Ken, 1974- -- McArthur, Stuart 276 p. : ill., maps ; 25 cm.
1st Scribner hardcover ed.
Includes bibliographical references (p. [251]-266) and index.
Traces the history of mapmaking while offering insight into the role of cartography in human civilization and sharing anecdotes about the cultural arenas frequented by map enthusiasts. It comes as no surprise that, as a kid, Jeopardy! legend Ken Jennings slept with a bulky Hammond world atlas by his pillow every night. It recounts his lifelong love affair with geography and explores why maps have always been so fascinating to him and to fellow enthusiasts everywhere. He takes readers on a world tour of geogeks, from the London Map Fair to the computer programmers at Google Earth. Each chapter delves into a different aspect of map culture: highpointing, geocaching, road atlas rallying, even the "unreal estate" charted on the maps of fiction and fantasy. He also considers the ways in which cartography has shaped our history, suggesting that the impulse to make and read maps is as relevant today as it has ever been.

[Letter and list of map tracings : Paris, to Lambert Tree, (Brussels?), 1891 July 21]. 1891. Authors: Margry, Pierre, 1818-1894 -- Tree, Lambert, 1832-1910 -- Edward E. Ayer Manuscript Collection (Newberry Library) -- Newberry Library. Manuscript. Ayer MS 562 2 items ([4] p.); 26 cm. Letter (in French) dated July 21, 1891 in Paris, from Pierre Margry, to Lambert Tree, U.S. envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Belgium and (for a short time) to Russia, proposing the publication of Margry's map tracings of French colonial holdings and discoveries in North America. Margry reminds Tree that from 1843 to 1851 he was engaged in extensive research in the history of the French colonies in North America, part of which research was later published between 1875 and 1888 under the auspices of the U.S. Congress. Margry proposes an enlarged English translation of these original volumes, as well as the publication of tracings he has made from original maps of French discoveries and explorations in North American colonies in North America.
America. With the letter, he encloses a list, entitled 'Cartes calquées sur les origines par M. Margry qui propose à Monsieur Lambert Tree de vouloir bien en faire la publication par lui ou par ses amis,' containing 19 tracings of New France, Montréal, Lakes Ontario and Erie, Toronto and Niagara, Detroit, the Mississippi River, Louisiana, the Lake Erie region of Ohio, including Fort Duquesne and Fort Machault, and other areas. Letter and enclosed list on stationery with engraved motto 'Teste Deo.'

Biographical and historical notes: Chicago founder of Rand McNally, Co., and family. Andrew McNally was born in 1838 in Armagh, Northern Ireland, and emigrated to New York City in 1857. He moved to Chicago about a year later, where he published an evening newspaper called the Star, and also worked at the Chicago Tribune. He met printer William Rand at the Tribune, and two men became business partners, establishing Rand, McNally & Company in 1868. The company initially focused on printing tickets, timetables, and guides for the burgeoning railroad industry, and later expanded to printing business directories and newspapers. Rand McNally began publishing maps for railroads and other businesses in the early 1870s, and throughout the next two decades expanded into trade books, educational maps, general literature, and textbooks. William Rand retired in 1899, and Andrew McNally led the company until 1904. In the 1880s, Andrew McNally began spending time in southern California, eventually purchasing citrus and olive trees. McNally built a plant to process the high quality olive oil he manufactured, as well as a railroad station from which he could ship his olive oil and fruit all over the U.S. He spent most winters at his home in nearby Altadena while his son-in-law Edwin Neff ran ranch operations from a separate residence. He died in Altadena in 1904. Andrew McNally married Delia Hyland in 1860, and the couple had four children: Frederick G, Elizabeth (Clow), Helen (Bedford), and Nannie (Neff). Nannie and Edwin Neff's son Wallace was an influential architect based in Southern California, known for developing the region's distinct architectural style referred to as "California" style. Frederick G. McNally was president of Rand McNally until his death in 1907. He married Lydia Wyles in 1884, and their son Andrew F.W. McNally (Andrew McNally II) took over the presidency of Rand McNally in 1933, after the death of his uncle, Harry Clow. Andrew F.W. McNally married Eleanor Vilas in 1908, and the couple had four children: Andrew III, Ward, Eleanor (Bodman), and Frederick G. Andrew McNally III was born in 1909, and attended Yale University. He began working for Rand McNally as a factory employee in 1931, then as vice president of the company's New York office. During World War II he served with the Army Corps of Engineers Map Service, supervising the production of military maps. Upon his discharge in 1945, he returned to Rand McNally's Chicago offices and, in 1948, succeeded his father to the presidency. Andrew McNally III led the company through a period of strong growth with his decision to expand into book manufacturing, and also oversaw the company's relocation from downtown Chicago to a larger headquarters and printing plant in the suburbs. He stepped down as president of Rand McNally in 1974, but continued as Chairman of the Board for 19 years and Chairman Emeritus until his death in 2001. He was involved with many Chicago institutions, serving as president and life trustee of the Art Institute of Chicago and the Chicago Historical Society; president and director of the Geographic Society of Chicago; and trustee of the Newberry Library. He enjoyed a lifelong interest in boats, purchasing and renovating a historic houseboat and serving as director of The Antique Boat Museum in Clayton, N.Y. He married Margaret Clark in 1936, and the couple had three children: Betty (Ravenel), Andrew IV, and Edward. His son, Andrew IV, succeeded him as president and, later, as chairman. Andrew McNally IV was last McNally to lead the company before the family decided to sell it to an investment firm in the late 1990s. Biography of the Clark family. Emmons Clark, grandfather of Margaret Clark McNally, was born in Huron, NY in 1827, and graduated from Hamilton College in 1847. He traveled to New York City and found work in a railroad office, later becoming manager. In 1857 he joined the 7th Regiment of New York, serving in three Civil War campaigns as well as the New York City draft riots in 1863. He was promoted to Colonel the following year, and commanded the regiment through the 1871 Orange riots and other unrest. Clark was also instrumental in fundraising efforts for the regiment's Armory (now known as the Park Avenue Armory), completed in 1880, and authored two books about the 7th Regiment: History of the Second Company of the Seventh Regiment (1864) and History of the Seventh Regiment of New York, 1806-1889 (1889). He served as secretary of the New York Board of Health from 1866-1901. Emmons Clark died in 1904. Emmons Clark married Adelia Augusta Hallett (1839-1891) in 1859, and the couple had six children: Adelia Isabel, Sophronia Tillotson, John Hallett, Emmons Jr., George Hallett, and Edward Bottume. Emmons Clark Jr. worked for Lanman & Kemp, a wholesale drug company, and traveled extensively in Latin America and East Asia visiting the company's customers. Edward married Jane Maguire in 1902, and the... couple had one daughter, Margaret, before Edward died in 1908. Jane Maguire later married Emerson MacMillin, a wealthy businessman who legally adopted Margaret. Biography of the Vilas family. Eleanor Vilas McNally (1884-1977) was the daughter of Carrie Ward Vilas and Royal C. Vilas, a wealthy industrialist based in Chicago. He founded the Pyle National Company, which manufactured electrical equipment, in 1897. Their son Logan A. (Jack) became the first person to cross Lake Michigan by air in 1913, and later flew the first fire detection patrols over Wisconsin forests. Vilas County, Wisconsin, is named for United States senator William Vilas, cousin of Royal C. Vilas. Book jacket: "The story of discovery and mapmaking is one of pushing back shadows, and no one in the last two thousand years achieved as much as Gerard Mercator in extending the boundaries of the known world. His life spanned most of the turbulent, extraordinary sixteenth century, a time when war rolled across Europe and revolutions engulfed religion, science, and civilization. Almost extinguished by the Inquisition, Mercator survived to bring his genius to making maps, and his achievement was nothing less than to revolutionize the study of geography." "Appropriately for an era undergoing radical change, Mercator was full of contradiction himself, tied to knowledge and beliefs of the past, yet unafraid to forge a new path. He never traveled beyond northern Europe, yet he had the imagination to draw the entire world anew and to solve a problem that had baffled sailors and scientists for centuries: how a curved Earth could be faithfully rendered on a flat surface to allow for accurate navigation. His "projection" was so visionary that it is used by NASA to map Mars today." "Andrew Taylor has captured Mercator amid the turmoil and opportunity of his times and the luminaries who inspired his talent - his teacher and business partner, Gemma Frisius; the English wizard John Dee; his benefactor, Charles V, the Holy Roman Emperor; his cartographic collaborator, Abraham Ortelius. The relating to division of lands. Nahua glyphs accompanied by illegible glosses. Pencilled annotations (probably by Nadine Beligand) in J. Galarza's Preliminary check list of Mexican manuscripts in the Newberry Library indicate that the map might be from the Metepec or Tulancingo regions in the state of Mexico. Map removed from paper backing (44 x 47 cm.) with assorted annotations on both sides. Annotations indicate a price of 10 piastres, include the numbers 124 (lined out) and 141, and the following, probably written by Ayer: 'Map showing houses, mountains, river, etc. Good ms.-- Plancarte.' Not drawn to scale. Relief shown pictorially. Colored inks (black, blue, green, brown) on amatl paper. Possibly part of Frederic de Waldeck's collection of Mexican pictorial mss.
