the M.S.L.S. degree from the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1971. Since July 1971, he has been employed at the Newberry Library, first as Map Cataloger, from 1975 as Curator of Maps, and, from 1989, as Curator of Special Collections. He is the author of Mapmakers of the Sixteenth Century and their Maps (1993) and numerous articles and book reviews. He received the Ph.D. in history from Loyola University of Chicago in 1999 with a dissertation on Intellectual Foundations of the Cartographic Revolution. Included are photocopies of annual reports, correspondence, diaries, contemporary newspaper and periodical accounts of the Wheeler survey, topographical surveys in general, telegraphic longitude, biographical information, photographs, and lists of maps. Also included are published and unpublished secondary literature relating to these topics, manuscript research notes, correspondence, and bibliographical information about primary and secondary sources. The material was collected by Robert Karrow, the Newberry Library’s Curator of Maps, during the course of research for a major article and a planned (but never completed) dissertation in American History. Additional research on telegraphic longitude resulted in a conference paper and a brief published article. Archival research was conducted at several libraries and the National Archives.

Organized in 7 series.

in the letter. Apparently written by or for William Kinney and the law office of Read & Taylor of Maiden Lane in New York City.

Kinney's response to Taylor's request for information on Virginia laws issued between 1778 and 1824 regarding western Kentucky bounty lands issued to Virginia Revolutionary War soldiers. Refers to land tenure issues involving commercial land speculators and Cherokee and Chickasaw Indians; Kinney supports military claimants over all others.

From "Autograph" [i.e. author's preface] (p.7): Whoever tries conscientiously to map one of these North Wisconsin counties soon makes the startling discovery that the detail of our local geography, away from the main roads and streams, is about as well known as that of Thibet or the Congo region. The map returned by the government surveyors in the eighteen-fifties was incredibly bad: . . . Although few sections remain which some one could not correctly map, this scattered knowledge of innumerable individuals has seldom been put on paper, and still more seldom been brought together into a general map covering any considerable extent of ground; so that Lower Bass Lake (for example) which in reality is four separate lakes, in the last county atlas and even on the State's recent soil map, appears as one.

“Cartographic sources: very little is known about the life and works of the Antwerp expert in law and mathematics Aegidius Martini, whose map of Limburg was not only model for the present plate, but also for many more Limburg maps to come (Meurer p. 190-191). The role of Gaston Spinola, Count of Bruyai, mentioned in the 1609/1612L text, in making this map is unclear.” -- From Marcel P.R. van den Broecke's Cartographica Neerlandica website, which includes a digital image of another copy of the map (accessed September 2012); see http://www.orteliusmaps.com/book/ort67.html

"Like all the great historic cities of Europe, London appears to us solid and unchanging. But this solidity is an illusion, for throughout its long history London has been changing and evolving. It has been renewing or replacing the streets and buildings at its heart and has been spreading inexorably outwards."

Authors: Williams, Loren L., 1828-1881 -- Williams, Loren L., 1828-1881. Journal (1851-1880) -- Everett D. Graff Collection of Western Americana (Newberry Library) 1 ms. map ; 62 x 74 cm., bound to 31 x 37 cm. Rough pencil sketch lacking significant detail. Drawn on two adjacent openings in: Williams, Loren L. Journal v. 5, openings [34-35]. Outlines William's northwest travel route from Yellowstone National Park along the Madison River, from the Firehole River basin to Virginia City, Montana; identifies Ruby, Wigman's, and Spring Creeks; accompanies his account of the trip in journal entries dated August 1879. Forms part of Williams's manuscript journals, chronicling his life in Oregon between 1851-1880. Pen-and-ink, watercolor, and wash. Forms part of the Everett D. Graff Collection of Western Americana at the Newberry Library. VAULT folio Graff 4683 v. 5, openings [34-35] (PrCt)

Prospectus title: Four Lakes property. Prospectus, city block plat, and printed map describing the city of Four Lakes, Wis., probably assembled after April, 1836, in Washington, D.C., by Sen. Lucius Lyon. Prospectus includes a summary of the location and size of the town-to-be; a list of owners (all members of the U.S. Congress); a description by Lucius Lyon of the town's advantageous location; a copy of a letter (Apr. 14, 1836) from Indian agent Henry Gratiot to Sherman Page (N.Y. congressman) praising the site; and assurances that in letters to Page, G.W. Featherstonhaugh (geologist and author) and H.R. Schoolcraft (Indian agent and author) also favored the location. Tipped in to the prospectus is a ms. plat of a Four Lakes city block drawn and signed by D.H. Burr. Also included is Burr's printed map of 1836, on which the site of the town has been marked: Map of Illinois with parts of Indiana, Ouisconsin, &c. The map is a government publication probably detached from: U.S. 24th Cong., 1st sess., 1835-36. H. Rep 525 (Serial Set 294). Located at the north end of Fourth Lake (Lake Mendota) in Dane County near Madison, Wis., the envisioned city of Four Lakes was planned in the mid-1830's in anticipation of being designated the capital of Wisconsin Territory. The site was surveyed in 1834 by Orson Lyon and probably purchased at public land sales in August, 1835, by Lucius Lyon (U.S. senator from Michigan) on behalf of himself and other real estate speculators. A post office was located in the town and 3,024 lots were planned. With the selection of Madison as the capital in late 1836, the city of Four Lakes never materialized. In 1843, the
