CHICAGO CHURCHES AND SYNAGOGUES—GENERAL

Introduction

This guide is intended to help researchers locate Chicago congregational histories and records at the Newberry Library and other repositories. It is not a list of every church or synagogue that has existed in Chicago; rather, it is a guide to locating records of Chicago congregations past and present. If you are aware of records or church histories that we have missed, please contact the library via the email address genealogy@newberry.org. Entries followed by a call number refer to items in the Newberry Library. Items followed by an FHL film number refer to items held by the Family History Library in Salt Lake City; these items can be loaned to the Newberry for a small fee, or to any LDS Family History Center.

EVANGELICAL COVENANT

The Evangelical Covenant Church has its roots in a Swedish pietism and the Lutheran Church of Sweden. The immigrants that formed denomination at first tried to remain with in the Augustana Lutheran Synod, but later formed two separate groups: The Swedish Lutheran Mission Synod (1873) and the Swedish Lutheran Ansgarius Synod (1884). The two groups merged in 1885 to form the Swedish Evangelical Covenant Church. "Swedish" was dropped from the name in 1957.

EVANGELICAL FREE

The Evangelical Free Church was formed by the merger of two groups. The Swedish Evangelical Free Church (1884) was founded by a group that declined to participate in the 1885 merger that resulted in the Swedish Evangelical Covenant Church. The second group, the Norwegian-Danish Evangelical Free Association was founded 1909 by immigrants that were influenced by pietistic revivals in their homelands. The two denominations merged in 1950 to form the Evangelical Free Church of America.

EVANGELICAL UNITED BRETHREN

The Evangelical United Brethren Church (EUB) has its roots in early 19th century Methodist-style revivals among German immigrants in Pennsylvania. The revivals spurred the formation of two denominations: the United Brethren in Christ (1800) and the Evangelical Association (1816). A splinter group, called the United Brethren in Christ (Old Constitution) left the United Brethren in 1889 and remained separate. A group succeeded from the Evangelical Association in 1891 to form the United Evangelical Association, however these two groups merged again in 1922 to form the Evangelical Church. In 1946, the United Brethren in Christ and the Evangelical Church merged to form the Evangelical United Brethren. The denomination's theological and structural similarity to the Methodist Church led the two to merge into the United Methodist Church in 1968.

Zion German Evangelical Church was located at 14th and Union from 1862 – 1906; at Hastings and Ashland from 1906 – 1923; and Van Buren and Lotus from 1923 to its closing in 1966. At that point, the congregation merged with Kloeckner Memorial Church located at 820 N. Central Ave. Kloeckner Memorial closed in 1977.

The disposition of the records of both congregations is unknown. (They are not at Eden Theological Seminary in St. Louis, the Archives of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, Chicago History Museum or the Newberry Library.)

The congregation was originally a member of the United German Evangelical Church of the Northwest, which merged with the German Evangelical Synod of the West (founded in St. Louis in 1840) in 1872. The denomination changed its name to the German Evangelical Synod of North America in 1877. “German” was dropped in 1925.

The denomination merged with the Reformed Church in 1934 to become the Evangelical and Reformed Church. This in turn merged with the Congregational Christian Churches in 1957 to become the present day United Church of Christ.
