

THE NEWBERRY

2017 Bughouse Square Debates

Saturday, July 29, 12:00 to 4:00 pm

Rick Kogan, Master of Ceremonies

Altgeld Freedom of Speech Award

Kevin Coval, Young Chicago Authors

Main Debate

What Constitutes Legitimate Journalism in a Hyper-Connected World?

Darryl Holliday, City Bureau

Mary Wisniewski, the Chicago Tribune

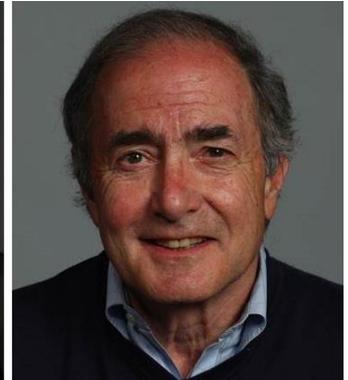

What is “real” versus “fake” news? When is it acceptable to publish or broadcast an unsubstantiated report? What sources can be deemed reliable? How does crowd-sourcing fit into the equation? Should journalistic ethics and standards espoused by mainstream print and broadcast reporters and editors be revised, in the face of alternative media and the never-ending 24-hour news cycle? And if so, how?

Soapbox Speeches & Open Soapbox

Come one, come all! Air grievances or spread good news. The best speaker will receive the Dill Pickle Award. Open Soapbox curated by the Society of Smallness.

Kevin Coval

Rick Kogan

Darryl Holliday

Mary Wisniewski

Entertainment

Environmental Encroachment Brass Band

Sousaphones Against Hate

Food Trucks

Information Tables

Local organizations and causes

In Washington Square Park

Free and open to the public

www.newberry.org/public-programs