

THE NEWBERRY

FREE PUBLIC PROGRAM

Martin E. Marty

Luther and the Reformation 500 Years of Book-Burning and Book-Learning

Martin E. Marty

Wednesday, November 1, 2017

6:00 pm

The Newberry

60 W. Walton St., Chicago

Five hundred years after Martin Luther, an Augustinian friar, posted ninety-five theses for debate over penance as a means of getting and being right with God, his legacy seems as momentous and controversial as ever. While his efforts to reform the church of his time were by no means singular—reforms were breaking out in most of Europe and were breaking up the Western church—he remains the paradigmatic reformer. Theologians, philosophers, and church-leaders discuss his “Protestant” reform as a “churchly” event. But it had and has enormous consequences in political, cultural, economic, personal, and social life.

Martin E. Marty is Fairfax M. Cone Distinguished Service Professor Emeritus of the History of Modern Christianity at the University of Chicago Divinity School, and the author of more than fifty books on religion in the United States.

Religious Change, 1450-1700 is a year-long, multidisciplinary project exploring how religion and print challenged authority, upended society, and made the medieval world modern.

Please register online for this free program at:

www.newberry.org/religious-change

Religious

Change 1450-1700