Stories from Mexican Hometown Associations

Saturday, September 22, 2018

Hometown associations, or clubes de oriundos, are organizations created by migrants and immigrants to allow them to assist the people in their communities of origin.

This event brings together leaders of some hometown associations in the Chicago area, who have contributed to the Chicago Mexican Migrant Oral History Project, to share their stories about the critical work and history of these organizations.

9:30 am Coffee

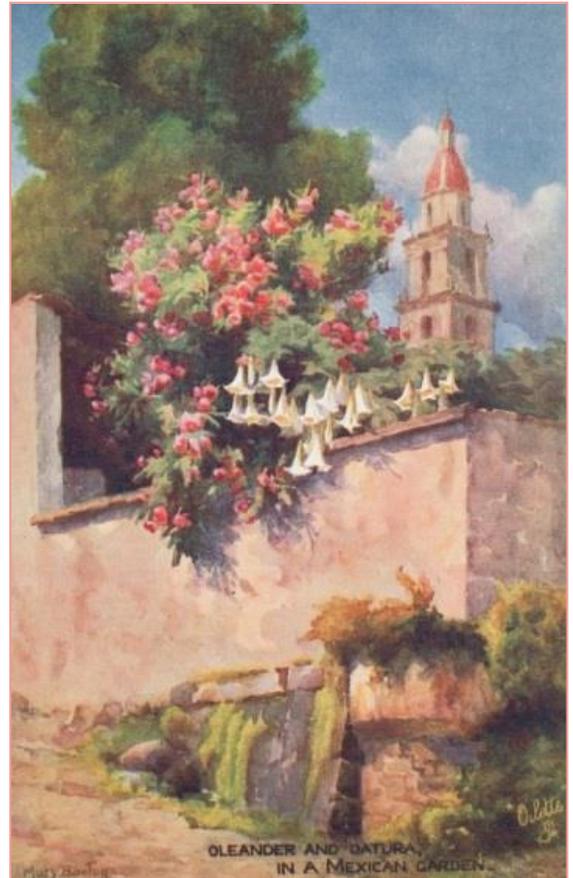

10:00 am Opening Remarks

The Honorable Carlos Martín Jiménez Macías,
Consul General of Mexico in Chicago
D. Bradford Hunt, Newberry Library

10:15 am Roundtable Discussion

Frank de Avila, Past President, Asociaciones de Clubes y Organizaciones Potosinas de Illinois
Claudia Lucero, Past President, Durango Unido

This symposium is organized by Xóchitl Bada, Associate Professor of Latin American and Latino Studies at University of Illinois at Chicago, and Andrew Sandoval-Strausz, Associate Professor of History and Director of the Latinx Studies Program at Penn State.
